

KING'S GRANT GOLF & COUNTRY CLUB BREAKING NEWS

Regrettably, due to urgent family responsibilities in Georgia, Kevin Kriews, King's Grant's new Director of Golf, resigned last week.

Fortunately for King's Grant, standing in the wings was Ron Stevenson, ready to assume this important position. Ron, whose abilities and expertise were evaluated in detail in the original national search, will start this new assignment this week.

Ron has over 27 years of experience in management of golf courses and country clubs. His expertise includes golf course design, pro shop management, membership development, aggressive marketing, attractive merchandising, clubhouse design and construction, land planning, financial supervision, course maintenance, food and beverage, junior golf programs, successful tournaments, golf instruction, enhancement of public play and other golf related activities.

Ron has been very active in the Carolinas PGA Section serving as president in 2000 & 2001 and was also South Carolina PGA Chapter President in 1997.

He graduated from Limestone College in Gaffney, South Carolina attending on golf and basketball scholarships.

Please welcome Ron and his wife, Harriet, to the King's Grant family.
